New Version (v2.5) Launched

Quertle is pleased to announce the latest version of www.quertle.info, which incorporates the highest priority user requests. The new features include:

- Export – You can now export results to your favorite bibliographic management software or save the results to a file. The Results pages are also now Zotero-compatible!
- More Content – The Open Access full-text articles from PubMed Central are now included. Quertle searches the full content of these articles.
- More One-click Links – The number of links to free full-text articles, including PDFs, has been expanded.

Useful Resources

The following resources are available to help you learn about Quertle as well as introduce the site to your colleagues:

- Quertle Movie – A short 3 minute movie that introduces Quertle. Great for educating your colleagues about the Quertle site. View it here.
- Using Quertle - The basics for using Quertle in a simple tri-fold format. Get it here.
- Why You Need Quertle - Slides showing why you (and your colleagues) need Quertle. Get it here.

- Quertle Tips - Slides giving pointers on using Quertle along with some useful tips and tricks. Get it here.
- Add Quertle searching to your website or iGoogle page - check out the new Quertle Gadget.

Request for Input

Quertle's goal is to provide a resource that is truly useful to the biomedical community. To do this, we rely on user input to improve the site. Following are two functions we are working to implement and for which we would like to get your input:

- Link Resolver - Quertle is working hard to provide link resolver capabilities. Please let us know what your needs are, what system you use that we need to be compatible with, and any other requirements you have in this area. Our goal is one-click seamless access to your subscriptions.
- PMCID Export - Several folks have requested that the PMCID be exported. Please let us know your specific requirements so we make this upcoming feature as useful as possible.
